

My Music Taste.

Music has been really important to me, from the way i started listening to songs back in 6th grade with my apartment friends (we did try not to sing challenges on youtube), when i got my own device, moving from airtel music to spotify, to listening to songs non-stop in the bus journey from allen to home in 12th grade (i used to travel by public transport). I primarily listen to pop music but they range from songs released in the 1980s to the present day, sometimes even trying out new and underground artists.

I just wanted to list out some of my favourite songs as of today, 4th February, 2024.

- Say it right - Nelly Furtado ft. Timbaland. : Absolutely sublime song. Love the beat produced by Timbo, just transports me to an imaginary world for the duration of the song where there is nothing but chill vibes.
- Low life - Future ft The Weeknd : Just love the beat to this song. Feel kinda badass after listening to this song, even though i dont particularly care about the specific lyrics
- Blinding lights - The Weeknd : The most popular song of all time and for damn good reason. An eclectic take on 80s synth-pop done exceptionally well.
- The Hills - The Weeknd : An absolutely fascinating song with a dark and intense sound to it. Its a dark and grim song but it knows about it and works with the theme.
- Slide - Calvin Haris, Frank Ocean, Migos : A bizarre combo of musicians, doing a tropical house song, and sounding absolutely wonderful. Its mood is dreamy and relaxing and i seek it out usually just before sleeping.

These are just some of my favourites. Its hard to list out all of them and explain all your reasons, but yes, i tried my best for a few of these. Maybe go check these out and see if you like any of these!
